 "The Path She Chose"

A Real Life Picture with a Punch in it
 Featuring Ann Cornwall

Her father was an incompetent, her sister a dodd, her brother a trickster. They pinned all their hopes on Virginia's beauty. But she chose her own path till her relatives sensed the trail. Learn the reasons that took. And learn who gets the thrashing of his life. You'll love this picture! See it next Friday and Saturday.

"IT'S A UNIVERSAL PICTURE"

Keep your eyes open for the biggest and most superb photoplay of the season. Watch for it in the Calgary Herald. It is booked to play the Grand Theater right before Clareholm.

"THE RIGHT TO HAPPINESS"
 Will be played here in the Rex Theater on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24 & 25

Harry Knight spent a few days in town this week.

Miss Barber returns on Saturday from spending her holidays at Banff.

"The Right to Happiness" coming to the Rex Theater on September 24 and 25.

The U. F. W. A. will meet at the Parish Hall on Saturday afternoon, August 28, at 3 o'clock.

Clareholm public school and high school will open for the fall term on Monday, August 30th.

"The Right to Happiness" coming to the Rex Theater on September 24 and 25.

Mr. Thomas Etherington, of St. Catharines, Ontario, is visiting his parents at Meadow Creek Ranch.

Dr. Mullin and wife returned this week from spending a three weeks' vacation with relatives at Victoria.

The auctioneer and clerk are now ready to arrange dates for auction sales this fall. Don't put off too long; get your date arranged early.

Mrs. H. J. Duffy and family left on Wednesday for Youngstown. Mr. Duffy has secured a position with the Farmers Co-Operative there.

John Stevenson, one of the old timers in this district, has sold his farm at Armstrong B.C. and it is understood that he will return to Clareholm district.

Pretty Virginia wanted real happiness; not the cheap, tawdry thing her sister had found. The struggle for decent, self-respecting womanhood forms a real plot in "The Path She Chose." At the Rex Theater next Friday and Saturday.

The voters list for the coming plebiscite is being prepared by K. K. Peck. The list will be posted in the post office and during the week from the 13th to the 18th of September any additions or corrections can be made by applying to the enumerator at his office.

The Annual School Fair is arranged for September 14th. Entries must be in before the 11th. The acting secretary is Miss M. Morrow. Entries can be made at the U. F. W. A. office. Special prizes in the form of silver cups are being added. See list in this paper or ask the secretary for particulars.

Barons (dolls)? Victor Dahlin entertained his brother Olaf, of Minnesota, recently. Their brother-in-law James White of Clareholm, drove Olaf over and when the brothers met neither recognized the other, it having been twenty years since they met. Mr. Olaf Dahlin is an artist and returned to his home last week.

The Rex Theater has been successful in securing one of the most superb photoplays ever filmed, "The Right to Happiness." The Grand Theater at Calgary has booked this play at a tremendous price. The Rex also has a big price. The Grand photoplay will be here on Friday and Saturday, September 24 and 25. You cannot afford to miss it.

yet in occupation of a large part of Germany; large bodies of British and French troops are constantly on guard in Mesopotamia and Syria. A recent visitor to Greece reports that martial law still prevails there, and that all the old war regulations and restrictions are in full force, and that thousands of Greeks are in the army who have been there since 1912 and cannot get out. The United-States is still technically at war with Germany and Austria.

Such a condition throws upon all other countries, like Canada, the burden of the task of feeding and supplying the world with necessities. So long as the work of production remains so much smaller than the demand for goods produced, the era of shortage and high prices must continue. It means a continued inflation of credit with all the evils that flow therefrom. It means that when the time of final readjustment comes, there is increased danger of a panic which will shake the financial and industrial world to its very founda-

The lesson for Canada is to go back as quickly as possible to essentials; to curtail the production and purchase of luxuries and to speed up on essential necessities. About four years ago I was seized with a cold, which was followed by heart, nerves and fainting spells. I was down in bed for about six weeks. My doctors seemed to get better and better, but I could not leave my bed. I could take such terrible falls, wherever I was, that it was impossible for me to get up at any time. At last I decided to resort to proprietary medicines and tried a number of them, but they seemed to receive but little benefit from them. One day noticing the advertisement of your Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them, and before I had taken more than a few boxes I was feeling better. I have taken about ten boxes, and I feel that I have been cured of my terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me, and I am sure that you will be glad with my heart to try them. How a Windbreak Adds Dollars to The Prairie Farm

Any body of trees which gives protection to buildings or crops may be called a windbreak. This article has to do, however, only with belts of trees planted about fields and farm buildings, especially for the purpose of breaking the force of the wind. The typical windbreak is a belt consisting of from six to eight rows of trees and usually from a quarter of a mile to a mile in length.

The influence of a timber windbreak upon air currents is purely mechanical. Its effectiveness depends therefore, upon how nearly impenetrable it is. The ordinary windbreak does not present an absolute barrier to the wind; a certain amount of air forces its way between the branches and foliage of the trees to the effect that the movement of the air on the leeward side is not completely stopped but only greatly reduced. Where the windbreaks composed of such trees as cottonwood become old, wide openings are left between the bare trunks and more wind gets through near the ground than higher up. Such windbreaks can be made efficient only by underplanting the cottonwood with either trees or shrubs.

An ideal windbreak for checking wind currents would have the contour of an earth dam. In the central rows would be planted the tallest trees. Such a windbreak would not be easily penetrated, and its inclined surface would divert the wind upward and relieve the horizontal wind pressure.

Breaking the mechanical force of the wind benefits the farmer most directly by protecting his grain crops and his orchard. The value of the windbreak in giving this protection is, of course, difficult to measure in dollars and cents, but where winds are at all frequent such protection alone may be equal to the cost of the ground occupied by trees. In one case in southern Minnesota, a windbreak, 80 rods long and about 25 feet high along the side of a cornfield, afforded complete protection for a strip about 10 rods wide during a wind blowing at 50 miles an hour. On the unprotected part of the field the wind blew down half the corn and bent the remainder half way, the damage being at the edge of the cornfield. The loss and increasing until it was greatest in that part of the field farthest from the windbreak. The corn was in the milk stage at the time of the storm and did not produce more than a third of a crop on the damaged area. On the protected portion the total sowing was 260 bushels, or the full crop of 6 acres, whereas the windbreak occupied only 2 acres.

Movement of the topsoil also may be checked and dust storms prevented by breaking the force of the wind. For this reason windbreaks are of immense benefit in sandy regions or regions where the soil is very fine.

Added to the crop and soil protection there is the personal comfort to be derived from protection from wind along the farm and house and along public roads. Furthermore, a protected home is heated in winter more readily, and hence more cheaply, than one exposed to the wind.

There is no part of the United States, except small areas in the Cascade Mountains, which normally obtains more precipitation than is needed for growing the best crops. The wind usually also carries dust and matches with the object of conserving every drop of water that may reach the soil during the year. In the "dry farming" regions of the West these conservation measures are carried farther. Here it may be necessary to use the water of two seasons to grow a single crop.

Anything which helps to conserve the moisture of the soil is of great benefit to the farmer. The windbreak has this effect in a marked degree. The drying power of the wind is reduced by the windbreak very nearly to the extent of the reduction in the wind. In the immediate lee of the most effective windbreaks evaporation is reduced as much as 65 per cent. The amount of reduction depends not only upon the density and position of the trees but upon whether the field is fallow or in the crops. The saving in moisture is least when the field is fallow, so that there is a reduction not only in the direct evaporation from the soil but also in the evaporation from the leaves of the crops.

The more frequent winds occur in any locality during the growing season, and the greater their velocity and drying power, the more important it is to the farmer in preventing evaporation. Windbreaks are especially valuable, therefore, in the west, where hot, dry winds, often of high velocity, are of frequent occurrence during the summer months.—Extract from article by Carlos G. Bates, U. S. Forest Service.

Backbone of The Country

Dr. Tolmie Says Agriculture Will Help Pay Canada's Debt

That agriculture would play one of the most important parts in the paying off of Canada's war debt was one of the chief points made by Dr. Tolmie, federal minister of agriculture, when he addressed the Canadian Club of Regina at a luncheon.

Despite the fact that there had been a steady increase in acreage in the last ten years, Dr. Tolmie said, there had also been a noticeable decrease in yield per acre, the result of the one-crop system. Such a condition lead naturally to the mixed farming with livestock as the basis.

During his travels in the west, Dr. Tolmie said he had been struck by the absence of cattle on the land. There was a fine opportunity in Canada for a campaign for improvement in the quality of stock grown as well as the seed grain. "An increase of three bushels to the acre in the production of wheat in Canada," he said, "would mean an annual increase to the country of over $18,000,000, and over $200,000 could be added to the income of the country by the adoption of more intelligent and enterprising methods of agriculture in all lines." Annual experiments carried out on the government's experimental farms had shown, said the speaker, that a great increase in yield could be obtained from the use of good seed and the rotation of crops. The use of fertilizers was coming to be a necessity in parts of Canada but "not yet in the western provinces." Over $300,000,000 could be added to the wealth of the country every year if the farmers would exercise more intelligence and enterprise in their agricultural operations," declared Dr. Tolmie. A great deal had already been accomplished by the Dominion and provincial governments in encouraging them to do so, but a great deal remained to be done. The dairy industry in particular needed encouragement. They were not content with the production of milk and cream but could grow in the west successfully as slaughter crops. The results of the international exhibition at Chicago showed that Canada could grow as good livestock as any country in the world. It required intelligence and enterprise, though, to do it.

Getting along on a past reputation gives a half-starved look.

Dominion Fish Hatcheries

Hundreds of Millions of Fish Were Released in Manitoba And B. C.

The fisheries branch of the department of marine and fisheries announces that the Manitoba hatcheries have completed distribution of fry for the season, the total liberal number being 226,448,500. Of these 25,353,600 were pike and the balance whitefish. With some few exceptions, the distribution of fry has also been completed in British Columbia. In that province, 114,479,487 fry have also been issued, chiefly of the various species of salmon. There were also approximately 740,000 of Kennerly's salmon fry distributed within British Columbia.

Assistant Butter Grader Appointed

Mr. H. A. Hanson has been appointed assistant butter grader and creamery instructor with the Dairy Branch of the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture and will enter upon his duties at once. He was born in Denmark where he received a thorough training in dairy work, and came to this country six years ago. Since then he has been making butter in the United States and Canada, becoming thoroughly familiar with dairy conditions in this country. Last year he was in charge of the Daphin Milling and Creamery Company's plant at Freesville, Sask., and during the past winter he attended the special course at Iowa State College.

Manitoba's New Capitol

An Example of Architecture Which Canada May Well Be Proud of

There is reason to believe that Manitoba has done great credit to itself and to Canada in the erection of its new Capitol. From all accounts it is an example of architecture which Canada as well as the province whose property it is, may well be proud of. It is reputed to be among the very finest examples of modern architecture in classic Greek design in North America.

A nation's architecture is one of the most noticeable symbols of its culture. Manitoba merits the gratitude of the whole of Canada for having erected such a splendid structure. —Ottawa Journal.

Agricultural Education Necessary in Every Branch of Farming

At a meeting of the Select Standing Committee of the House of Commons on Agriculture and Colonization held to consider the standardization of the parts of farm machinery the Honorable S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, endorsed the proposed policy and expressed the hope that the difficulties in the way would be overcome. He then addressed the committee on the subject of agricultural education, emphasizing its value as applied to the livestock industry. He said, "Through education we can look for greater improvement in the livestock industry of the Dominion. The scrub bull campaign is an educational campaign and in every province there is a great field for the improvement of live stock. Even in Ontario we find that 47 per cent of the bulls in use are scrubs."

Better business methods for the farm were also advocated. The minister recommended that we should be more careful in coming the cost of production. The farmer who carries on mixed farming has perhaps one or two lines the care paying, such as wheat, which he is losing, and some on which he breaks even. It is in his interest to find out which of these lines are parasites on the thriving departments of the farm. By counting the cost of production, the farmer would not only be able to develop more energy toward developing the profitable branches, but he would be in a position to eliminate the unprofitable. In this connection he referred to the marketing or farm products, and extended hearty congratulations to the farmers whose co-operative enterprises have been so successfully conducted. He considered that this work properly belonged to the active farmers themselves and as an illustration of the value of co-operative practices he related his personal experiences of co-operative creamery operations in British Columbia, where a system was developed that raised dairymen from a slushy undertaking to a methodical, profitable and growing business. Co-operative breeding was a point the minister considered of vital importance at the present time. For instance, one group in a certain area stick together and produce one breed, say Jerseys or Guernseys, so that such a centre might become known as a Jersey or Guernsey centre, where breeders would be able to purchase car-load lots without having to search throughout a whole district containing many breeds. Community breeding is an excellent advertisement for any community and it will receive the hearty encouragement of the Department of Agriculture. The accredited herd system, which has been inaugurated by the Department, is a guarantee behind these, and it is of advantage to breeders who are specializing in good stock.

Throughout his address Dr. Tolmie stressed the necessity of education for farmers in every branch of agriculture. He showed conclusively that success in agriculture is largely due to education; proper methods of cultivation, conservation of soil fertility, the use of fertilizers with timely attention to seasonal conditions, go far to insure abundant crops. Along with this a practical knowledge of agriculture is largely due to education; proper methods of cultivation, conservation of soil fertility, the use of fertilizers with timely attention to seasonal conditions, go far to insure abundant crops. The Latest at Greenwich Observatory

Observatory Founded Centuries Ago Keeps in Step with the Latest Developments

Once every year a rather quaint ceremony is observed at Greenwich Observatory. An inspection of the Observatory is made by a "Board of Visitors" to witness the Astronomer-Royal reads a report on the work of the preceding twelve months. The latest report shows that although the Observatory was founded centuries ago, at the very dawn of scientific navigation, it keeps in line with the latest developments. A new aerial has been erected to catch the signals over which wireless time signals can be received. These signals are now received regularly from the Eiffel Tower, Nauen, and Annaburg. The Observatory also controls the operation of time-balls in different parts of the country. These time balls are hoisted on a prominent mast and released at specific hours by an electric signal from the Observatory. The accuracy of the operation is checked by a return signal from the distant time-ball. Greenwich also controls "Big Ben," the famous clock of the Houses of Parliament.

Edison Greets Telegraphers

Sends a Message Over Wire For the First Time in Nineteen Years

Gripping a telegraph key for the first time in 19 years, Thomas A. Edison sent a message to posterity from his home in Orange, N. J. The cable of the instrument as it clicked off the inventor's message was inscribed on an imperishable phonograph record, and placed in the archives of the Historical association here. The message was sent directly to a committee of the old-time telegraphers, and "Amid the activities of a busy life full of expectations, hopes and fears, and amidst the cares and anxieties with my comrades of the dots and dashes have ever been to me a delight and pleasure. I consider it a great pleasure to record these characters on an indelible disk this tribute to my beginnings in electric signaling, the telegraph, and with it a Godspeed to the fraternity throughout the world."

Arctic Trapper Sees Motor Car For the First Time

"The good old Arctic river mine," declared W. V. Clark trapper and trader from the Eagle River country in the Arctic, after viewing for the first time the changing scenes of life in a bustling, modern city. "For the first time in my life I have seen street cars, automobiles and sky scrapers have mingled with the crowds," he said. "It is all very strange and wonderful, but it is not my choice. I would not exchange for all this vast open space, the great out-of-doors of the Arctic circle. It has been my home for 33 years, and I hope to get back there in August."

Mr. Clark brought some magnificent fox and marten skins valued at $9,000.

Thirty-three years ago he left Vancouver for Calgary, travelling there to Edmonton in an old Red River cart and by the same method he returned the journey to the great rivers of the north.

Federal Government to Help

Will Spend Five Millions in Highway Improvements

During the first year in which the federal highway scheme is in force, five millions will be expended on road improvements throughout the Dominion. Three millions will be contributed from the federal treasury and two millions by the provinces.

While the Dominion government undertakes to spend a maximum of $2,000,000, the demand for grants has been so heavy so far, because this is the first year of operation and the provinces have not yet had an opportunity to prepare their plans.

"And you broke off the engagement?" said one young man.

"Yes, not brutally, you know. But I managed it."

"How?"

"Told her what my salary is."

Aerial Landing Places

Making Early Cross-Country Flights From One End of Dominion To The Other

Landing places will shortly have all been marked out for cross-country air flights in Canada, after which time it will be an easy matter for an aviator to leave, say Halifax, and have his route charted through to the opposite side of the Dominion, with landing places marked on his map at distances of about fifty miles apart. He will then know where to strike if a forced landing is imminent.

Capt. Drummond, of the Air Board staff, Ottawa, has just completed a survey of the country between Winnipeg and Sudbury, locating suitable airfields and airmen to be charged for cross-country flying. In seeking the locations, Capt. Drummond travelled by the Canadian National Railway to Hearst, and then by Grand Trunk Pacific. The landing places are marked along the line of railway, which will be followed by aviators for their first attempts.

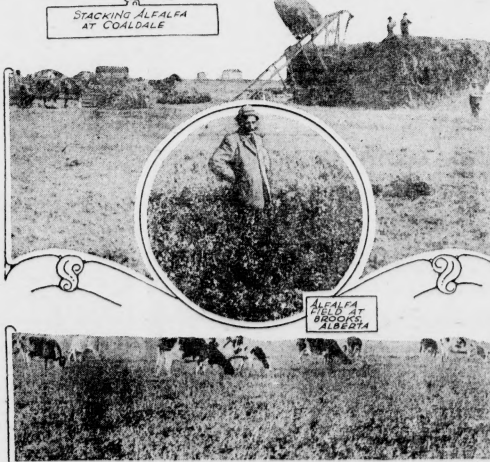

It is expected that flying will be in progress at all four of the Air Board's stations in Canada by the middle of August. The station at Vancouver is now in the course of construction, and machines are on the way. Mechanics are on the ground at Morley, Alta., and machines for use there are being forwarded at once. Rockcliffe hangar has been opened and Camp Borden is already the scene of some military flying. Classified as a secret, the plan to begin as soon as the necessary regulations have been approved by the cabinet council.

Australians are by far the most prolific writers in the world. They average 150 letters a person in each year, as against an average of 40 for the people of the United States and Canada.

GRASSES OF CANADIAN PRAIRIES MAKE MOUNTAINS OF BUTTER

STACKING ALFALFA AT CAULDALE

CATTLE IN ALFALFA FIELD

These there are in the larger centres such as Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, large centralized creameries or dairies. These operate on the same basis as the buying stations along the railway lines.

These making has become a considerable industry, too, but does not keep pace in growth with the butter industry, as farmers generally prefer to produce and feed the milk by-product to growing stock. Eleven cheese factories are in operation in the province, and turned out in 1920 a half million pounds valued at $140,000.

Dairying is fast becoming one of such as Cauldale and Brooks.

Some have taken exception to our interpretation of Premier Stewart's promise to make the province "bone dry," and insist that "bone dry" means a better enforcement of the prohibitory laws. Therefore the Premier's promise does not mean that the manufacture and use of intoxicants for medicinal or scientific purposes will be in any way interfered with. Our idea is that this is placing a wonderfully mild interpretation on the words "bone dry," and that if that is what the Premier really meant, then he used language entirely too forcible in expressing himself.

Since much stress is being laid on the results to be gained through Premier Stewart's promise to accept a large favorable vote on the prohibition proposal as a mandate to make the province "bone dry," and since there is a difference of opinion as to the exact meaning of the words "bone dry," we think it is up to the Premier to put it down in black and white now just what it does mean by that word. The people have a right to know when they are casting their ballots what the probable result of a favorable vote will be.

Evangeline Immortalized in Bronze

(1) At the unveiling of the statue of Evangeline by Lady Burnham, when the Imperial Press Conference party visited Grand Pre, N.S.

(2) Some members of the party assembled around Evangeline's well.

Five continents were represented at the unveiling of the statue of Evangeline, Grand Pre, Nova Scotia. Nearly all those present belonged to the Imperial Press Conference party and the unveiling ceremony was performed by Lady Burnham.

Who said: "Evangeline is the beautiful companion of an American poet whose verse we learn to read on both sides of the Atlantic when we were children. History has shed another light on the Acadian story. We see today that British policy was not as cruel as it was painted. Whatever may be the truth of this story, as a woman and an English woman, I shall always regard it as one of the most painful episodes in our annals. Thank God those cruel old days lie behind us forever, and from the fate of Evangeline we are getting a new sense of the unity which has been carried on by a saintly band of true heart. It is a good omen that the beautiful form, God's healing hand, should be resting upon us all today, who are here to do honor to that sweet woman. Under these rays in your wonderful land so full of beauty and promise, the old hatred is dead. I have now the great honor and privilege of unveiling the statue of Evangeline.

The statue which is of bronze, is the work of Elmer Hebert from a model by his father the late Philippe Hebert, a descendant of the Acadians of whom Evangeline was one. It is a magnificent work of art, and was presented to the Park at Grand Pre by the Dominion Atlantic Railway, which is now part of the C. P. R.

Although it may seem a little late to report the return of the Gap fishing party composed of John Fraser, Thorger Dawe and W. S. Keeley, this delay was caused by the fact that one of the fish caught was growing in size and weight and length every day. Mr. Keeley who is an expert angler has always claimed that he will not have anything to do with a small bite. He hooked the monster at the foot of the falls and after playing him for twenty-five minutes he finally landed him with the able assistance of John Fraser. This catch was made eight days ago and although the fish weighed 4½ pounds when caught and measured 17½ inches, it has grown to be a fine specimen weighing 9½ pounds. Several parties are leaving this week to close the fishing season at the Gap as John claims there are more of the same variety there.

"You're sure good medicine, Gloss," he said. "Yes, we are getting quite a nice plot of ground cleared, and I look for quite a nice yield this year, both in corn and wheat. Traps don't seem to promise much for this winter, though. The noise and clatter of Hallib's mill seems to be driving the mink and rats across the bay."

"Can't we make him take the mill away from Lee Creek?" asked the girl. "I hate the sound of it. Its noise drowns the song of the birds and its smoke hides the blue of the sky between the trees. What right had he to put that mill there, anyhow?"

"Well, he owns a strip of bush on Totherdale," explained McTavish. "It comes right up to Lee Creek. So you see the mill is on Hallib's own property."

"Oh, look, uncle," cried the girl, "there's some black squirrels crossing the corn-rows now—five of them. I do believe any would relish a bit of stewed squirrel. I meant to tell you to shoot one or two for her this morning, but he was gone before I was up."

Joe, the setter, broke from the thicket and leaped across the corn-field. All summer he had acted as custodian of the field, and even now the squirrels stood in mortal terror of him, and the crows cawed him in guttural croaks from the tops of tall trees beyond the danger-line.

As the squirrels took to a lone hickory in the corner of the field, Boy McTavish came quickly around the corner of the house. He stood the clumsy hand-made fork he carried up against the leaves, and mopped his face with his sleeve.

"Where?" he whistled, "but it's turned out a fine day after all. Never knowned injun summer to be so long. Hope it keeps up, dad, and let's get the corn all husked yet before trapline time. Suppose we have a bee and a dance at night, same as we did at the wood-bee? Dechute is going to have a loggin'-house."

"Hello, Gloss," he called, catching sight of the girl. "How's ma this mornin'?"

"Better and hungrier for squirrel," he answered, her eyes on the treed blacks.

She ran into the house and returned with a rifle. She handed him McTavish the powder horn and, bracing her feet, cocked the gun.

"How far?" she asked, throwing it to her shoulder with a practiced hand.

"Sixty yards, anyway," answered Big McTavish.

"Nigher, either," asserted Boy. "Too far, Gloss, you'll miss sure."

A gleam of mischief shone in the gray eyes sighted along the brown barrel. Then the girl stepped back, and a black ball detached itself from the hickory and went swinging down to earth in tiny circles. The dog gave a low whine and came bounding forward, the squirrel in his mouth, and allowed Boy to take it from him.

"Right between the eyes," said Boy proudly.

Big McTavish reloaded the rifle and handed it back to Gloss. His face was wrinkled in a grin of mingled surprise and admiration.

"I thought maybe two would be enough," said the girl. She took the rifle once again and glanced at Boy.

"Oh, go on, Gloss," he encouraged, "only one more. Fact it, I'm a bit hungry for corned squirrel myself."

"And I'm thinkin' I wouldn't turn up my nose at a plateful of stewed squirrel either," seconded the father.

"All right, just one more shot, then, hit or miss," laughed Gloss. "See that chips two ears and part of his head stick up above the knot? I'll take him this time, I guess, though it's no easy job."

She fired, and the squirrel dropped from the limb. Another white from Joe proclaimed it a clean kill.

Big McTavish, without so much as a word, took the gun inside. Boy held the animals up by their bushy tails and the girl who was watching him said:

"You ain't carin' much to see the blacks killed ever since the time you had Tommy for a pet, are you Boy?"

"Well, I don't know as I'm carin' much one way or t'other," he answered slowly. "Tommy was a cute little beggar, but he wasn't really a black. He was a gray squirrel. Greys are good."

"You mean black?" asked the girl. "You mean black?" asked the girl. "You mean black?" asked the girl.

"Got to Live by the Sea"

Earl Beatty on Vital Factor of Sea Power

"We came into being by the sea. By the sea we have existed and in the future we have got to live by the sea."

These were Earl Beatty's stirring words in returning talks at Glasgow for the hospitality of that city.

Beatty was declared, asked for criticism, they were not afraid of criticism, but they asked that it should not be destructive, but constructive.

"The task in front of those who administered the navy at the present day was a great one, and he had deemed the task of sea power."

He named the "Silent Service" because to say anything was not opportune. But today it was opportune.

The fleet in common today represented the minimum compatible with superiority and supremacy of the sea.

There were critics who said we must have ships which could disappear under the surface one minute and be lost in the clouds the next.

He dared say these critics were right, but the time for such ships was not, and he disagreed with them.

Nothing had been devised, the critics, outside of a few windy paragraphs in the newspapers to take the place of the capital ships.

Where Pontius Pilate Reigned

Colonel Storrs, Graduate of Cambridge, is New Governor Of Jerusalem

The office of governor of Jerusalem once occupied by Pontius Pilate, is now held by Col. Ronald Storrs, a graduate of Cambridge University, and son of the Dean of Rochester College, England.

His task is one to test the administrative ability of any man. Jerusalem is a city of disunion, where, what ever may come of the future, for the moment, Zionists and Arabs are passionately divided, and to steer a just path between them and induce them to join him on that path is thankless work.

It is to that task, however, that he chiefly devotes himself. Twice a week he has meetings of his favorite Jew-Jerusalem society, when French, Italians, British, Americans, Rabbin, Zionists, leaders, commercial men of standing and others who are in any way prominent in the life of the city are brought together and in the course of debate, led to see that they have in common a single citizenship.

His motto as governor is, "unity and be friends."

Colonel Storrs was one of the prime movers in the establishment of an independent Arab kingdom. He is 38 years old.

No Present Chance Of Cheaper Food

Prof. G. I. Christie of Purdue University Reviews Agricultural Situation in U. S.

In a statement with regard to the agricultural situation, Prof. G. I. Christie of Purdue University, who is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, says: "The people of the United States are living on a diet of automobiles, musical instruments, jewelry, fine clothes and recreation more than they wish food. These people are willing to pay good prices for such articles that laboring men engaged in the manufacture of these materials may be paid wages two, three and five times as great as the farmer can afford to pay."

"Cheap land and cheap labor have gone," continues Professor Christie, "and so the last of cheap food has been seen. From now on consumers must pay the price that allows the farmer a fair return for his labor and his investment."

A conference of the members of the agricultural staff of Purdue University was held to consider phases of the present agricultural situation. Many reports received from the various counties in the state are alarming and show an unsettled condition.

The statement concludes: "Food is absolutely necessary—more than a hundred millions of people in the United States must be fed, while in addition, many millions in Europe must have food from American farms—people of the cities must realize that farmers must have a fair price for their products. Cheap land and cheap labor have gone and so the last of cheap food has been seen."

From now on consumers must pay a price that will give a fair return for the farmer's labor and also for his investment. Under the conditions, if wheat was worth $2.20 per bushel in 1917, the corn 1920 should bring at least $2.50.

"If corn was worth eighty cents in 1914, the 1920 corn should return $1.25 to $2 per bushel. Prices for the other crops, for live stock, dairy and poultry, should be increased accordingly. Food production should be maintained, but this can only be kept up."

World's Biggest Chinaman

Served Three Years in France in the Chinese Labor Corps

Sergeant Ting-wang is the biggest Chinaman in the world, and one of the earth's tallest men. Wang, who is twenty years old, stands seven and a half feet in his socks and is built in proportion. He served three years in France as a cook in the Chinese Labor Corps. Most of the time he acted as escort to the German prisoners as they were marched back from the front lines. He never lost a prisoner, his enormous size and strength striking terror in the hearts of the captives. When peace came Wang hoped to be engaged as a bodyguard to some rich European or American, but no such individual apparently needing his services he decided to go back to his farm in Manchuria.

A Land of Opportunity

Canada is A Most Attractive Land to the Immigrant

In an article on Canada as a land of opportunity, the Manchester Guardian points out that never in his history has Canada been a more attractive land to the immigrant with political ideals. "Her growing sense of nationhood, no less than her fresh outlook on her internal problems," the Guardian says "offers to a man of independent mind and democratic outlook a real hope of shaping things as he would wish in a new country. And above all her needs in importance is that of immigrants of the right stamp, men with the character and the fortitude to settle her great empty spaces that yield so rich a return to those who will dare and tame them, men who possess a common sense and a sense of responsibility, and whose needlessness social distinctions go by the board, and where the dignity of labor is more than a phrase."

Trend of the Times

What Western Cities are Doing in The Building Line

Comparison is a mighty good guide from which to judge the trend of the times.

A comparison of the building activities in the Prairie cities point to an optimistic viewpoint and a belief that the present cost of building is not only justified but is not likely to make any rapid decline.

January 1st to May 31st

City	1919	1920
Calgary	$1,076,800	$1,245,500
Edmonton	128,775	126,725
Regina	43,750	1,273,650
Winnipeg	47,570	4,190,000

In Winnipeg, building permits for June, as of June 28th were approximately $1,700,000, as against $2,200,000 for 1919.

A very good percentage of this wonderful increase is for individual homes, of which thousands are being erected.

Approximately 600 houses and 14 schools will be built in Winnipeg in 1920. This is but an indication that the prevalent throughout Western cities of our "your own home" and "build now" idea.

Make it an individual question to settle with yourself. Are you a renter in a home—why? Why not catch that "Build Now" spirit. Own your own home.

All modern ideas are fully equipped to render every assistance. Free plans—working drawings and every construction is being rendered by the office of the architect for promoting the "Build Now" idea.

Recruiting for Militia

Training Camps to be Established in All Parts of Canada

Reorganization of the militia forces of the Dominion is proceeding satisfactorily at present insofar as the selection of commanding and other officers is concerned, according to officials of the headquarters staff. It is not expected, however, that a great deal will be done in the way of recruiting before September. Then, it is expected, recruiting will get off to a good start, in view of the arrangements which have been made to train at local headquarters by city corps and some artillery and machine gun units.

By next summer, when it is fully expected that training camps will be established in all parts of Canada on the former lands of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, the militia forces authorized regions and other military units, will, without difficulty, be brought up to full strength.

Soldier Settlement Board Agents Meet With Good Success in Campaign

Messrs W. E. Scott and Russell Wilson, who have been in the British Isles, acting as a selection committee of the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada, have returned to Ottawa. They held 83 sessions in many parts of Great Britain and Ireland, and a large number of men who wish to settle on farms in Canada appeared before them. The number of individuals that Canada will get as new grants through their efforts, is 629, and many of them are already in preliminary training on farms in Canada. The work has been supported for a year. Half of those selected have had experience in farming, and all will be required to spend the prescribed time on the farms before being accepted on their own account. The aggregate capital represented by this number is approximately a million dollars.

A Mother's Trials

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and varied. Her own health and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls and "housewife's rest" broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, weariness, lackluster and nervousness. Too many women have grown to accept these visitations as part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief is at hand. When well, it is the woman's good instinct that she tries to keep her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, and through their use thousands of weak, ailing wives and mothers have been made bright, cheerful and strong. Many Reduced to Point of Prudence

Earl Sheffield, recalling the freedom of Sheffield, said that with the disappearance of the German fleet they were released from a very real competitive building, but they must bear in mind that the day would come when veteran ships must be sold, and under the present financial conditions very little would cost a great deal. The navy, he said, was now reduced to the lowest limits consistent with prudence.

Mental Fatigue

Caused by Monotony, Not by the Amount of Brainwork

It is not the exercise of the brain for long hours that causes fatigue, but the monotony of the work, says the Buffalo Express. Almost every judge, lawyer and doctor whose practice has risen to a point where it keeps him busy has found it admirable to cultivate some hobby as bridge or chess or to turn his mind to leisure hours to reading that is not light and breezy, but that is real exercise for the mind. The essential is that it be something as different as possible from the mental work with which he gains his daily bread.

The writer knows a middle-aged man, who, after a long day of severe brain work, finds rest and recreation in spending the evening studying scholastic philosophy.

Most doctors teach that physical exercise will take away the ill effects of overdoing mental work, but Dr. Joseph Toole, a Romanist practicing in Paris, has just published a book on fatigue in which he sets forth the opposite view, i.e., that physical exercise will increase brain fatigue.

Of course, the real cure for mental fatigue is sleep.

Fatigue comes more quickly to the untiring brain or body. The pedestrian or the man who does not soon tire, nor does the expert accountant's brain rest, after adding up long columns of figures with an accuracy and speed that rivals that of a machine.

Who has not noticed on returning from a holiday that the work is difficult, that he cannot concentrate? It is really that the mind is out of practice.

Kindness to Animals

Careless at the Bottom of Much of the Crime Practiced

Kindness to animals is indicative of a human's ability to be kind to his fellow man; and man's kindness to fellow man comprehends the true expression of the moral laws which alone can save the world. There is no need for such a drive as recently, which seeks to foster the spirit of kindness to the animal world, and yet, unhelpful, there is a great need for it. Carelessness, rather than downright brutality lies at the bottom of much of the cruelty practiced against the wild beasts and even upon the wild animals which are forced to unwarranted tasks for the gain of the man at the point of gun and the fish of ship. The man of woman who is kind to animals will always be found to be charitable to his fellow man.

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holman's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

Craze for Big Cities

Quality Often Counts for More Than Quantity

The craze for big cities seems insatiable. In the United States they have been talking a great deal about the size of New York and boasted it had surpassed London and is now the largest city in the world.

However the latest census returns show that New York city had in January last a population of 5,621,151, an increase of nearly 18 percent over the figure for 1910, but the American metropolis is still below London's population.

According to the latest census returns, London, England, had a population in 1917 of 6,273,753 or about 60,000 more than New York. Other large cities are Paris, with 2,588,909; Chicago, 2,221,000; Tokyo, 2,382,000; Berlin, 2,061,000; Vienna, 2,031,000; Philadelphia, 1,968,000; Philadelphia, 1,735,000; Moscow, 1,481,000; Constantinople, 1,300,000; Calcutta, 1,222,000; Rio de Janeiro, 1,130,000; Buenos Aires, 1,080,000; and Peking, 1,000,000.

One wonders how much happier the citizens of these great cities would be than they would be if they lived in cities with but one-third of the population. We have been too prone to worship the god of bigness, forgetting that "In small measures life may perfect be."

Navy Reduced to Point of Prudence

Earl Sheffield, recalling the freedom of Sheffield, said that with the disappearance of the German fleet they were released from a very real competitive building, but they must bear in mind that the day would come when veteran ships must be sold, and under the present financial conditions very little would cost a great deal. The navy, he said, was now reduced to the lowest limits consistent with prudence.

For Manitoba Highways

Manitoba to Receive Federal Grant of $800,000 for Good Roads

The Manitoba provincial treasury will this year be partly relieved of the burden of providing good roads in Manitoba, according to Hon. Geo. A. Giesler, minister of public works. Federal legislation which becomes effective provides that the federal government shall give the province a flat grant of $800,000 for construction of roads, and bear the burden of 40 percent of roads constructed. It is stated, however, that the flat grant is in addition to the percentage quoted. An official request for this assistance will be made by the provincial government in the immediate future.

Under the present provincial legislation the government bears 50 percent of the cost of construction in market roads and sixty-six and two-thirds percent of the cost of construction on provincial highways. In both cases, however, it is required that the roads be gravelled. One of the stipulations on which federal government pays 40 percent of the cost is that the particular road construction on which this aid is to be paid must be submitted for approval to the federal board set up under the act.

How to Shock Grain

Two General Methods Which Are Followed According to Conditions

As one travels over the country during harvest time, one begins to believe that grain shocking under the present conditions is not as effective as it used to be. This is due probably to two causes. One reason is the shortage of labor, and the other is the use of inexperienced shockers. There are two general methods of shocking which are common: one is the six or eight bundle shock with a cap, in which all the bundles are set as compactly as possible; and the other the forming of a row. The first method is more suitable where the grain is dry at the time of shocking and where rains are expected later. The second method is suitable where grain is somewhat wet at the time of shocking and where no rain is expected. If the row is closed an apple can not be distinguished from a potato by taste alone.

You Can Depend On It

EVERY drop of Imperial Polarine is 100% lubrication. It spreads a protecting cushion of oil between all wearing parts, making each part function smoothly and reducing wear to a minimum.

It has exactly the right body—forms a perfect piston-to-cylinder seal, maintains compression, conserves power and saves fuel. It does not break down or run thin under extreme heat.

Imperial Polarine burns clean, reduces carbon deposits to a minimum and assures long life, smooth running and reliability to your motor at all times, under all conditions.

There is an Imperial Polarine grade for every motor need, from crank shaft to differential. Consult the Imperial Polarine Chart of Recommendations for the correct grade to use in your car—it is on display wherever Imperial Polarine is sold.

Sold in one and four gallon sealed cans, steel kegs, half-barrels and barrels, by dealers everywhere in Canada. Buy in large containers and save money.
